Youth studies coursework focuses on working with urban and diverse youth. Courses include youth development and policy, community building, and experiential learning. You’ll benefit from faculty and community mentors who will support you in your growth as a youth worker. Build skills and community contacts through an internship to successfully transition into a career working with youth.

Student Experiences

Dajah Godbolt - “I have met inspiring teachers, advisers, and students that believed in me and pushed me to become who I am today.”

Study Abroad Options
Learn about study abroad options for Youth Studies majors.

You might also explore

Family Violence Prevention Minor
Social Justice Minor
Early Childhood
Child Psychology
Racial Justice in Urban Schooling Minor

Associated Careers

Advocacy Worker, Educational Assistant, Grant Writer, Tutor, Youth Program Director, Community Organizer, Nonprofit, Youth Worker

Admission Information

Freshman admission information

Transfer admission requirements for the College of Education and Human Development